

AUSTRALIAN

business baking

Easter celebration

Spotlight On:
Anna Polyviou

Gumnut Patisserie

Traditional baking
with Maggie Beer

APR/MAY 2011

BAKERY OPENING OFFERS ESCAPE FROM CITY BUSTLE

Popular Infinity Sourdough Bakery in Darlinghurst, Sydney, has moved across the water to open its doors in Manly, the heart of the northern beaches.

The new outlet is fitted with resurrected antique lamps, old oregon planks from a chocolate factory in Newtown and a makeshift garden setting.

"All will allure those passing by, but the friendly service and quality of our products will keep them coming back," owner William Petersen said.

The location is a "perfect" stop-off for commuters to grab a coffee, muesli, or a loaf of sourdough on their way to the ferry or for Manly locals to hide from the hustle and bustle of the Corso.

The Manly Infinity Sourdough Bakery will stock lines of plain, wholemeal rye, seeded sourdough loaves, speciality loaves such as walnut, spelt, pumpkin and fruit and nut, danishes and yeasted ranges of sourdough.

All sourdough loaves are made with certified organic flour, filtered water and Murray River inland salt. ■

ITALIAN PANTRY LAUNCHES ONLINE ORDERING SYSTEM

Sydney Italian eatery, Criniti's Ristorante, has launched Criniti's Pantry, allowing customers to order cakes, biscotti, and pastries online for home, event, or office delivery, or as a special treat at their next Criniti's function.

Twelve cakes, four Italian biscotti and four pastries are available for order.

The range includes Criniti's famous profiterole cake with toffee or chocolate topping (pictured), Malato di Cioccolato, Pastini Mandorlatti and Amaretti by the kilo, and traditional Italian pastries such as Cannoli and Catocci.

Only 24 hours notice is needed to have a box of freshly baked Criniti's product delivered. Delivery is free for orders more than $150.

First established in 2003 by husband and wife team, Frank and Rima Criniti, Criniti's Ristorante has become a popular and iconic Italian hotspot that specialises in traditional southern Italian cuisine. ■

